Citizens Castigate Council, CRAB

Council Meeting Goes to the Dogs Or -- It Was a Dog Day Evening

by Sandra Barnes

There was no humor in the August 8 meeting of Greenbelt's city council as approximately a dozen furious citizens, led by Steve Polaschik, voiced their disapproval with what they termed the inaction of the council and the city's Community Relations Advisory Board (CRAB) on the problems created by unleashed dogs, an issue which the citizens had presented at a council work session three months ago.

Even City Manager James K. Giese, took it on the chin for his "penny pinching" advertisement for a second animal warden several weeks ago. Noting that College Park pays its animal warden $6 per hour, Eunice Coxon and others felt that $4.49 would not attract the mature kind of individual needed to be the city animal warden. (A second advertisement in last week's News Review offers $5.50.)

The citizens were as angry about having to come to council for a second time with their complaint as they were with the issue itself. "Nothing's been done since the last (council) meeting," said an irate Joe Costa. "A matter of this importance should not be passed to CRAB," he further stated.

CRAB came under considerable attack for not listening to the complaints at its last scheduled board meeting, held in July. A number of citizens had attended that meeting expecting to voice their concern on the dog issue. However, CRAB had instead scheduled the meeting to discuss the cross burning incident. Councilmen Tom White and Bob Zugby apologized to the citizens for CRAB's failure to hear them. However, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, White, Zugby and Councilman Ed Putens all felt that CRAB still had a valid role to play as the dog issue was a sensitive one to many citizens. Only Mayor pro tem Richard Pilski thought that council should act, that evening to establish a more severe fine, such as $100 for dog owners who permitted their pets to run loose. This was in line with fines established in the pet ordinances of College Park and Bowie. "The research has been done. The city manager knows how to change an ordinance . . . Council should act immediately," he urged to fervent applause.

CRAB will meet on Wednesday, August 24, at 8 p.m. in the Youth Center to discuss the pet problems. The public is invited.

However, other minds prevailed as council once again instructed CRAB to look at the overall issue. Zugby, a former member of CRAB before being appointed to council, defended the beleaguered advisory board by suggesting that it might hold regularly scheduled meetings and publicize its agenda. (At present the board meets only when called upon by council to deal with a specific issue.)

Tom White noted that "CRAB might not have the leadership they've had in the past," but urged the group to meet sometime in August — not waiting until one week before the September city council election as they had scheduled.

Coxon warned council that "this is an election issue" and that she wanted to see an animal warden who would be "as visible (in the community) as a policeman and a postman".

Giese admitted that the part-time animal warden currently employed by the city is a member of the public works crew and generally does not respond to animal complaints until his regular job is completed at 4:30 p.m. By that time, the animal would be long gone from the scene. However, Giese said that if the situation were serious, a policeman would respond.

Costa complained about the conditions at Attick Park, stating that on a recent visit he counted six dogs, four unleashed. He suggested more signs be placed around the lake park warning dog owners of the penalties for letting their dogs run loose. "Council is negligent in this area . . .

Let's get this thing ironed out . . . I hope this is the last time people have to come here . . ." on the dog issue, he commented.

Lekh Batra told council that he has been bitten by a dog twice in the last five years. "Both times the dogs were without a leash and the owners were nearby. Both times the owner reassured me 'the dog won't bite'. Both times they were far from the truth." He also warned that he had been informed by employees who lived on the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) property that packs of wild dogs lived on the farm and were quite dangerous. Batra, who himself works at BARC, indicated he knew of one pack that was presently breeding. "Also rabies is being increasingly reported from wild animals," he stated. "Unvaccinated pets are not under adequate control and can pose a danger to all of us, including the owners."

Council expressed concern about the wild dog report. All of the council members stated that they recognized the urgency of the whole problem of wild and unleashed dogs and would "take the proper procedures." Signs at the lake, a second animal warden and referral to CRAB with instructions to hold its meeting at the earliest possible date were targeted.

This issue took one hour and thirty minutes of a lengthy City Council agenda after which the citizens left Council Chambers — assured that their message in this election year was heard.

Bulletin

Tonight the staff of the Prince Georges County Board of Education will recommend to the Board that Greenbelt Center Elementary School be "modernized" instead of "demolished." After a determination is made, the Board will seek additional input from the Greenbelt community and other interested parties.

CANDIDATES' NIGHT SET

Citizens for Greenbelt will sponsor a Candidates' Night, for those running for city council, on Tuesday, August 23, at 8 p.m. at Greenbelt's Utopia Theater.

Each candidate will be asked to respond to three questions concerning zoning, public transportation, and pet problems. After the candidates give their initial remarks in the form of answers to these questions, the floor will be opened for questions from the audience.

This forum will provide an opportunity for Greenbelt's voters to learn the candidates' views on various issues. It will also make the candidates aware of citizen views on current problems.

JONES IS CANDIDATE FOR CITY COUNCIL

Herbert Jones, whose biography appears below, filed as the eighth candidate in the city council elections to be held September 20. A woman resident in a townhouse on Edmonston Road was sexually assaulted when a man gained entrance to her home by posing as a workman from a roofing company hired to repair or inspect for a leaking roof. Once inside, the man tied the woman up, forced her to commit a sexual act and then left. The woman was then able to untie herself and report the occurrence, which took place at 1:40 p.m. on August 10. The suspect is described as a white male, 23-25 years old, 6' tall, 180 lbs, muscular build; with short light brown curly hair, clean shaven, wearing faded blue jeans and a blue T-shirt.

At 9:37 p.m. a woman resident of the 7700 block of Hanover Parkway was the victim of a pocketbook snatch. The two male suspects grabbed her purse while she was on the parking lot and ran from the scene. A check of the area resulted in the arrest of one suspect, a juvenile non-resident.

Jewelry and cash were taken.

An indecent exposure case was reported near the Safeway in the Greenway Shopping Center. The victim was called over to the suspect's vehicle and asked what time it was. The woman then observed that the suspect was not wearing any clothing. The incident occurred in the afternoon.

Thefts from autos occurred on August 13 in the parking lot of the American Legion and on August 15 in the 6200 block of Springhill Dr.

A breaking and entering occurred on August 14 in the 9100

by Eleanor Santoro

Greenbelt resident Tom Doremus plans to walk from Calais, Maine to Key West, Florida in an effort to raise funds for the purchase of land where a Seniors National Park (SNP) can be built.

The SNP is an idea which Tom Doremus, 27, wants to make a reality. "I want to honor senior citizens for their contributions to this country and to provide a recreational/educational facility geared to their needs," explained Doremus. The Greenbelt Golden Age Club and the Gray Panthers of Prince Georges County are also backing the SNP project.

Doremus is petitioning the government, groups and individuals for several acres of land to be allocated in the Baltimore-Washington area, indicating that Greenbelt would be "an ideal location" because it is near major east coast population centers, health institutes, major educational centers including the Senior Center Training Institute at the University of Maryland, and has a great deal of tourist traffic. Doremus suggested several park components, but says once a location for the park is found, a committee comprised mostly of seniors will determine the structure of the park. Doremus' suggestions include: a petting zoo, a game center, a miniature golf course, a workshop building and a seniors international center where seniors from ethnic groups around the country could help assemble displays and provide entertainment that reflect their culture. Doremus indicated that the park should be built with easy access for physically handicapped seniors.

Doremus, who has a Bachelor of Science degree in Family and Community Development from the University of Maryland attended the Senior Center Training Institute in College Park, said "a combination of schooling and projects I've worked on" has promoted his interest in the welfare of senior citizens. Doremus explained that while he worked as a house painter in Greenbelt, he came to know senior citizens better. "Through conversations with them, I realized that many felt they weren't recognized for their capabilities and I feel they are often shoved aside — it's a national attitude and I see SNP as a 'respectful applause' to seniors and a model for some future State Park additions." "This is why," added which he will photocopy at libraries along the way and distribute to various churches, schools, newspaper offices, etc. Doremus expects to arrive in Key West sometime in March or April, making the trip in a total of seven or eight months.

Doremus said if SNP is supported and land is granted, he hopes to serve as an events coordinator and fundraiser for the park. But, Doremus insists that his interest in senior citizens will not stop at the SNP. He wants to continue to be an advocate for senior citizens programs and encourages assistance from others who want to help.

Those interested in helping with SNP or those wishing to obtain petition forms, write to "Up with Seniors," c/o The Golden Age Club, Greenbelt Youth Center, 99 Centerway, Greenbelt, Maryland 20770.

GHI NOTES

The Member and Community Relations Committee is making plans for the rapidly approaching Labor Day Festival. The booth will feature hidden treasure donated by GHI members and friends. To make a donation, call Betty Deitch (474-3152). Volunteers are also needed to work at the booth. All GHI members are encouraged to call Leta Mach (474-6682) to set up a time to serve at the booth.

Doremus, "I want senior citizens to build (the park) as much as possible . . . to prove they're capable."

Doremus said the walk is primarily for publicity reasons. "I need to get the media's attention first," pointed out Doremus. Once the media is involved and the concept has public exposure, Doremus said he is confident that the SNP will be supported.

Doremus flew by People's Express on August 8 to Maine, where he began his journey. While Doremus does do quite a bit of hiking, he has never attempted to walk in marathons or the like. Financing this walk by himself, Doremus said he will carry everything he needs in a backpack. Although he said he will go to churches, senior centers and senior citizens homes to ask for shelter, Doremus said he will carry a sleeping bag and tent. Doremus said he will also carry with him a copy of the "Up with Seniors Project Kit," explaining the SNP Concept.

REHAB LOAN DEFERRAL PROGRAM

RAISED TO $70.00 PER MONTH

The Rehab Loan Deferral Program (RLDP) has been amended to allow eligible members to defer $35.00-70.00 per month of their rehab payment. This loan will be assessed 3% accrued interest but does not need to be repaid until the house is sold.

Since RLDP began this spring, many members have taken advantage of this program leaving them with extra money each month for other necessities. These members can check into having their deferral increased by calling the Member Services Coordinator (474-6644).

New participants in this program are also welcome. Just call the Member Services Coordinator to find out whether you are eligible. Eligibility is determined by financial status and rehab charges.

It is not too late to take advantage of RLDP. GHI wants to help all its members who can use this assistance.
